In the American of Thursday, nascends all the rest, in silly and arrageous assertions. In his artie, in which he bitterly censures Tuesday's date, and for which ole object it was got up, we have he following statement, at the acarecy of which the reader will be assed or amused.

"The federalists have had all three ranches of the government for the ut twenty years, but two; the deaccratic party ten; and for eight ers the political complexion of the two Houses was different."

Bless us, how times goes with this sight! Here we have a period of thirty eight years distributed betweets the reigns of the two parties. This would carry us back into the revolutionary war, a date long before any thing like the present bickerings ere conceived.

Another unblushing misatatement. sa wilful alteration of a passage in arpaper of Tuesday. He pretends squote from it, as follows—"at the time of the Declaration of War, and the disorders of the mob, (had this criticany hand in creating the mobi) there existed a complete democratic Control is all the branches of go-onally borrowed the concluding It is obvious, that the voter, by dis- Ils, whither the spoils of the armonwords in his capitals from the preceding sentence, at the expense of disregarding a period which divided them, a capital which marked the beginning of the new sentence, and of rendering the latter sense void of meaning. It runs thus-"Except the Senate, the other branches had succeeded federalists," the very opposite of what his foul play ascribes

The next passage he censures is the following. The parenthesis in

"Here certainly it is seen, that the democratic growth was so fee ble and unsubstantial, that before these two occurrences intervened it had been overpowered by federal atrength. It is equally apparent that after a temporary privation of the office of the Governor and House of Delegates-the federalists not only regained these branches but the Senate also, of which they had been longer dispossessed (they had the House of Delegates in 1808, the republicans regained their ascendency in 1809; they had been dispossessed of their Senate in 1801, regained in 1816.) since then they have uninterruptedly held all TIIREE branches, during seven years of annual elections of the House and Gover. nor all last winter."

The latter part of our phraseology, is hastily and too generally expressed; but it is plain, that where presided no design to misstate. The Senate, who are explicitly admitted and represented, in our article commented upon to have been democratic, at the commencement of the term al uded to, could not, in the nature of things, have become federal till the end of their official pe ried, nor could we be understood to mean it. We have not lessure to day to take up his remaining impuration, but will notice it on Monday.

*General Winder.

We will now finish what we had to say respecting BYE-STANDER He is altogether uni formed in his dates of the acts of Maryland, laying off the congressional districts, which, in addition to what we remarked in our last, proves him a random writer. The first was passed at November session 1790. The second the year following, and not in 1793 as he asserts. The third and last was passed in 1805, and not in 1802. We find on examination, that we were misinformed, in believing the law as it now stands. however ill it is adapted to express the whole voice of the federalists, was altered from that of 1791 -The districts have remained unchanged for nearly thirty years .-But in the investigation, we have made, we have discovered what most probably was the foundation of the error, and conveys the same imputations as if none had been committed, so far as respects the unfairness of the democrats, in the formation of electoral districts, when they had it in their power. . The same law of 1805 arranged the state into new districts, for the choice of electors of President and Vice President .-A bare perusal of the manner in which they acquitted themselves of this duty, will induce every one to think them well entitled to all and more than we said about the congressional districts. It will be seen, that, by dividing counties and splicing remote ones together, they succeeded in adjusting a plan, which ensures them seven electors out of eleven, leaves only two certain to the foderalists, and two doubtful .-The preceding law of 1795 was a protty fair and impartial enactment. Yet how long have not the federalists borne the gross oppression of the present scheme!-ib. A new writer on the Calvert election, has appeared in the American, under the signature of Caro. His argument in favour of compelling the disfranchised voters to disclose their ballats is rather unique. He urges, that because, if a man give an illegal vote, under a false impression of his qualification, he does not tender himself liable to the penalty of the election law, he does not, by declaring the names of those for whom he voted, testify against himself. Were not the cause in which touble to recur to our paper, he be surprised at such a fallacy escapwill and that this man has intenti- ing a writer of equal discernment.

closing for whom he voted, testifies to the most material fact, available against him on a prosecution for the penalty. It is not necessary, that the testimony required of a witness, should have more than a tendency to criminate lim, or to enable him to refuse to answer. If the answer is calculated to make out only part of the case against him, he has a right to object to it. But in the instance we have in view, the answer would raise a complete presumption of guilt, to be repelled only by edunter proof of his mistake and innocent intention, a circumstance not easily established in many cases and particularly in such as this.

He further affirms, that it was admitted in debate, that a witness might be examined as to his age, and every thing necessary to make him a qualified voter. In the first place the assertion of an anonymous and unknown writer cannot be received as equivalent to fact, in a matter so improbable and questionable as this. Secondly, the admission could have no application to the passing circomstances, as the house unlawfully and tyrannically decided, that no question should be put to the voters. but for whom they had voted, and is on this account more improbable.

But a conclusive answer is, that if a person, were positively to swear to his disqualification, instead of accusing himself, he would testify in a manner, which, if true, would exempt him from all penalty. By the election law of this state, a person, having no right to vote any where. renders himself obnoxious to no penalty, by voting. It is to such cas es as James Gray's, that the penalty attaches.

Nor is there any analogy, as is alledged, between asking a man, declared by the house not entitled to a vote, for whom he voted, which, i answered would be a direct admissi on of the basis and cause of incurring the penalty, and the collateral circumstances of age and indirect particulars, not in themselves bearing features of the criminal offence, but to be remotely connected with it by other chains of evidence .- ib.

nounced in the Annapolis democratical paper. The last war had evinced the necessity of a deposit of arms and military equipments in this city, and a temporary armory was accord ingly provided. It appears from the statement of that paper, that the establishment was continued till the first of last month, and then discontinued-for what reason, but to make a boastful and empty display of economy, we are at a loss to imagine. The whole annual expense was but six hundred and eighty dol- they affect, in the slightest degree, lars; to save which, this city has been deprived of a necessary resource for any military emergency. It is true, there is no prospect of such an occurrence being at hand, but every wise government provides seasonably and amply against great evils, which, when they meet us in an unprepared state, are either irresistible or surmounted with difficulty. We, therefore, say it, and appeal to the people of every county in the state, that this city is the place which ought to contain the great armory of the state. The experience of the last war amply proves we cannot rely for this on the general government. Here is a numerous population to protect it. Here are daily and almost hourly established conveyances, by land and water, to every part of the state, by which the arms and other military requisites could be forwarded, with the least delay and expense, wherever wanted. Nor is it of slight consequence, that where immense wealth is compacted, as in this city, and liable to total pillage or destruction by a single disaster of a decisive nature, the utmost means of protection ought to be accumulated, particularly when connected with the other advantages we have pointed out. The arsenal, if not also the barracks at Frederick, are useless. They are not situated sufficiently centrally or conveniently to navigation for any modern use; and we have always believed, that such establishments, when not necessary for public service, are naisances to their immediate vicinity. We, therefore, presume that the people of Frederick would view their removal without much regret. Annapohave been removed from this place, is far too accessible and insecure for a general repository of the implements of war; but we admit that on that very account, it ought to have a full supply for its own protection.

It has often been said, that the people of the other parts of the state sincerely wish this city to possess and enjoy every thing, which tend . to her security, wealth and improvement; and we make no doubt, that instead of seeing her despoiled of an arrenal of the annual cost of six hundred and eighty dollars, they would wish to see her provided with one of sufficient magnitude, to furnish an unfailing resource to the rest of the state. Suppose Baltimore overrun and occupied by an enemy, where else could the farmer seek as convenient and good a market? What would become of their unsold produce and uncollected debts? What would become of the business and fortunes of their numerous family connections. Their sons and their daughters, who are interwoven in our community? Will they see the heart which circulates the life blood of the state, stripped of its protection, for the paltry saving of six hundred and eighty dollars per annum? We believe there never was an example of more odious retrenchment than this, which must recoil upon its contrivers.

Oh! but it seems, that the establishment was only encreasing executive patronage, and keeping fede ral partizans in offices. And this cruel intimation is thrown out, with reference to an annual allowance of the paltry sum of two hundred dollars to the veteran, accomplished and worthy Col. Waters, who received his appointment as superintendant from the ever to be lamented governor Winder, who well knew his merits.

But this is not all-the building deemed most eligible at the same expense, for the purpose of the arsenal, and accordingly rented as such, happened to belong to general Ridgely, who possesses so much property in this city, and gen. Ridgely happening afterwards to be elected governor of the state, the rent, as far as the Annapolis paper complains of it, continued seventeen months of his term, but was approved and continued the next year by governor Goldsborough, and also by the presedt executive during seven months. Notwithstanding all this, want of candor has resolved the matter into patronage as for as respects col. Waters, and grasping self interest in gov. Ridgely. Such unreasonable and ungenerous imputations are not likely to serve any cause; nor can the public opinion upon the subject. But when we turn our eyes to the very large sum engulphed in the perverse measures pursued to subvert the voice of the people in the Calvert election, we are out of patience. The expense of the legislature for the last session was estimated at $35,000; and we leave it to the public to say how very considerable a proportion of it must have been occasioned by that fatal and protracted obstinacy .- ib.

OLD MONTGOMERY. We are mortified to learn that in Montgomery five candidates have offered on the Federal side. Of these, four were regularly nominated, and the other had but five votes of the committee. Under such circumstances, it is not less surprising than deplorable, that a Federalist could find any motive strong enough to impel him to embarrass the county arrangements and hazard the result, which, but for this incident, would be splendid. All the old causes of irritation and contention had just ceased, and those, whom the occurrences of a few years past had alienated, were again approaching each other in that eager and sincere spirit, which is natural to brethren of the same principle. Why should they not, when not a shadow of difference remains? Ambition, and the lust of official emolument have but little place in the bosoms of the Federalists of Montgomery. When, therefore, they differ, it is only in views of public expediency. Now that these views are reunited, how unfortunate is it, that any thing so unexpected and dangerous as a fifth candidate should spring up to dash | the parties whether to answer of nor.

the general hopes! How very di erent a stand is it from that s by Frederick County. More dissett had long prevailed there, than ever harassed Montgomery, but it has vanished, and all are now united, zealous and sanguine. The same has taken place in Cecil and Alle-

The candidate not nominated bas been an uniform, active, and tried Federalist, and possesses so much good sense and intelligence, that the public have a right to expect that he will view the measure in a different light, and withdraw. To gain a victory, all our strength ought to be embodied and exerted; and if it should be more than necessary, it will enhance the triumph. We have had proof enough recently of the danger or neglect and dissention. To these causes is owing the present necessity for extraordinary exertion; and if they continue much longer, no exertion whatever will avail. To the list of official promotions, which already contains the names of Mun-MA and JOE ENNALLS, we may be compelled to view in silence, an host of other like conspicuous worthies are added. If it were possible to be defeated again, it might prove an irrecoverable overthrow. What was vindictively inflicted last winter upon Calvert County, will, in such case, be the common lot of all the Federal and doubtful counties, with less form or difficulty. Such alterations in the representation, are avowedly meditated by the Democratic party, as will, when adopted, eave no animation, and scarcely & name to Federalists.

Should our opponents succeed now t will not be easy to prevent them from gaining the Senate, at the next election; and thus possessing both branches, they will effect such radical transformations, as will disarm and frustrate all opposition to their will .- This is not a mere conjectural suggestion .- It is a solemn warning, grounded upon the journals of the legislature, as is known with the details to those who have paid but & slight attention to their proceedings. It is therefore unnecessary to display the particulars here. The plan is composed of several constituent parts, whose combination will injure friend and foe in several parts of the

The gentleman alluded to is aware of these considerations, and we trust that all motives of rivalry or personal hostility, if he is influenced by any, will yield to the critical condition of the election and itse consequences .- The motives of ambition or interest are out of the question; nor would they be best gratified by persisting, if they even existed.

This state of things and the private sentiments for him. are habitual to us, inspire a lively hope, that upon this occasion, he will act the part, which, in our humble opinion, is alone consistent with what the party may justly expect from one, who has never thrown an impediment in their way, but in whom, on the contrary, they have heretofore found a champion.

The same view of the case lies before the Federalists of the county. Whatsoever decision he may make to rule his own conduct, they will readily perceive the predominance, which the public cause ought to have over private friendship and attachment. If they suffer themselves to be guided by such an impulse, they prefer in effect an individual, however estimable, to their country. To evince their partiality for future occasions will not be wanting, when it may be done with no danger or inconvenience .- le ought moreover to be the just prive and precaution of a county, once so celebrated for its unanimity and patriotism, not to suffer the feuds and contentions which have latterly made s ch inroads upon it, entirely to pass it over, without redemption to those, whom they consider politically wrong .- Ib.

It is dwelt upon by those, who attempt to justify the proceedings on the Calvert election, that the Dorchester delegation voted in favour of the resolution, asserting the right of the house to coerce the rejected voters. They ought also to state that the same gentlemen afterwards changed their opinion, and voted, that it should be at the discretion of or the purchase of stor by any one of the time prior to the in d Republican will pas once a week sould at

Of the 35,000 dollars, the estimated expense of the last session, what large proportion must that election have cost! We should like to see a fair estimate made from the votes and proceedings. The computationabove mentioned, being only the ordinary amount of common years, was most probably exceeded. Eigher this must have been the case, or the other public business of the state must have suffered yery great neglect. How easily might all the extraordinary expense have been saved, had the house at once, or in a convenient time, affirmed or set a. side the election. as far as regards the disputed seats, without spending so much money and usurping for. bidden power? The Calvert petition was brought forward on the 8th of December, and the proceed. ings growing out of it were not finally terminated until the 29th of January, an interval of almost two months. It is a fact, that is deserving of notice, that the majority exercised, among other prerogatives, the magnificent one of gagging the minority by the previous question, which, with their want of scruple about almost any point, might have made short work, if they had been so minded. They could however bring the business forward, whenever they pleased, and dispatched it with due deliberation and with justice to all, yet we have seen them s'raining the health of the members by unnecessarily protracted sessions. without refreshment or repose, when they wished to make a display of their power. How happened it then, that they chose to keep the business lingering two months? If two of their party had really been entitled to their seats, why did they deprive them so long of their right, leaving them of this long session, a remnant of only about one fortnight .-Surely the federalists, by motions to adjourn at dinner time, as is complained of, and participating in the other numerous and varied propositions, which were offered, could not be chargeable with this injustice.

But the majority had pre-determined to break through the long established usage of hearing the testimony at their bar, and to consign that duty to a committee, accompanied with the extraordinary and unheard of order, to dismiss the witnesses, severally, as soon as the committee had examined them thereby putting it out of the power of the minority to investigate the correctness of the report of the state of the testimony made by the committee, should it be questioned in any instance in the house. Having gone thus far, why did they not adopt the proposal of the federalists, to send their committee into the election district complained of? -How much expense would have been saved, by not dragging eighty or ninety withesses to Annapolis, and keeping them there?

On the score of their own principles there would have been no dif ference; to the treasury there is a mignty one. The committee might well have been spared from the hous . as the party majority would been perfectly secure without their presence. The majority might have condescended to give the finances of the state at least this small portion of ease, after exhausting them by the refusal of their party to afford the state any thing like adequate protection during the war .- ib.

FEDERAL REPUBLICAN MEETING.

At a respectable meeting of the Federal Republicans of this city, convened agreeably to notice, at the city assembly room, on Monday evening the 4th inst. Dr. William E. Pinkney was called to the chair, and Thomas J. Brice appointed secretary: -

The meeting being organized, and its object explained by James F. Brice, Esq.

Col. HENRY MAYNADIER, and ALEXANDER C. MAGRUDER eng.

were put in nomination, and receivd the unanimous vote of the meet-

Whereupon the following Resolutions were offered to the consideration of the meeting, and adopted.

Resolved, That this meeting pledge themselves to use all fair and honourable means to promote the election of the cand dates.

Resolved. That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Maryland Gazette, Easton Gazette, Frederick-town Herald, Star of Federalism, and F. deral Republicat.

WM. E. PINKNEY, chairman.

For the Maryland Gazette.

To draw the public attention from the abominable conduct of Tobias E. Stansbury in suppressing the resolution which passed the house last session in favour of Mr. Pinde, and others, and to weaken ins testimony as much as possible, an attack has been made on him in the Faston Star of the 29th of August. Among other falsehoods and barefaceda ssertions, this writer contends that in lieu of the state being indebted to Mr. P. $195 50 that he justly owes the state $465 87 1-2 and he goes on to state further, that in this manner the federalists exhaust the Treasury on their favourites. This democratic writer, and the present democratic council, are completely at variance, in their opinion on this subject, or the present council has committed a robbery on the people if there writer in the Star is correct; for the latter asserts, that Mr. P. owes the state justly $465 87 1.2; and the former, under the resolution of the house referring the claim to them for adjustment, has so far from demanding of him the amount which this writer says he is indebted to the state, given him an order on the Treasury for $195 50 the, whole of the balance which he claimed of them -Below you will find a copy of the order issued from the Executive Chamber. Thus, if this writer tells the truth, the people have been robbed by the present Governor and Council of $661 37 1-2. If the claim had not been just, you may be sure Mr. P. is not such a favourite with the Executive as to receive an

when he owed them $465 87 1-2-It may be necessary however to state that the reason he did not bring this subject before the people sooner was, that he had not his hand out of the Lion's mouth, knowing that it would have its full weight with the Executive in acting on his claim-It is now left with the public to say, if this part of the writer's statemenis not fully refuted, and whether they can place any confidence in any thing he has said in his state-

In Council June 13th, 1820. Ordered, that the Treasurero f the Western Shore pay to Benjamin Pindle, esq. one hundred and ninety five dollars and fifty cents, for collecting sundry arms and so forth, and delivering them to the armourer at Annapolis, as per account passed. By order.

NINIAN PINKNEY. clk.

It is evident that the rights of freemen, sailors as well as others, are as indifferently protected by a democratic government, as if they were of little or no importance to those possessing them. When we take a retrospect of the proceedings of the legislature during their last session, the truth of this remark, must, I think, forcibly strike every mind that is not warped by prejudice, since it clearly appears, that the democrats, who had last year a majority in the house of delegates, were regardless of the poor man's constitutional privileges-privileges so invaluable, that when destroyed, deprive the possessor of that, which affords a sufficient guarantee for the security of life, liberty and property. The occasion, on which I now address you, is one truly momentous. It is, I presume, almost needless to remind you, that a portion of your liberties have been already prostrated by the very men who are not only now soliciting your voices in their behalf, but are also trying to persuade you into a belief that they a lone are the assertors of your rights. You are not, perhaps, aware, that even at this time, these pretended champions of freedom, though they wish you to suppose otherwise, are contriving to break down all obstacles that interpose thems lves bet een those rights to which I have just made an allusion, and their over weening predilection for power .-Let me urge you, my fellow citizens not to give them again an opportunity, by electing democratic delegates this fall to represent you in the state legislature, of more materially impairing your rights. No onger regard their assurances to you, that they are the men to whom you should in preference to others intrust your immunities or rights, since such protestations are calculated to luli you into a fatal security. Freemen of Maryland, so soon as you place the democratic party in power again, you virtually surren der your libercies, and some of you may, like the voters of Calvert, be summoned at the bar of an inquist torial house of delegates, from whom you will probably receive as bad, if not worst treatment than those voters did, while questioned by that p litical inquisition. Ir was then that the right of suffrage was im pugne .- a right more precious to a freeman than any he possessestherefore the least infraction of this right, should induce every freeman to express his decided disapprobation thereof; by w thdrawing his support from the violaters of such right This is the way to prevent your be ing reduced to a condition little short of absolute slavery. You ger tainly cannot hesitate in your choice. whether to be freemen or slaves!-Re-elect the democrats, and you will no longer enjoy the rights of reemen, since they will dispossess you thereof as is demonstrative from their violations of your constituti onal rights while conducting the scrutiny in regard to the Calvert election, a scrutiny that had nearly reduced you to a state not far short of unconditional slavery. "Disguise thee as thou wilt, still slavery thou art a bitter draught"-"Tis liberty alone that gives the flower of flecting life, its lustre and perfume-and we are weeds without it," and you will, my fellow citizens, be weeds, unless you change your present rulers, since they evince an unbecoining eagerness to divest you entirely of your liberties. Freemen of Maryland, are you, under existing circumstances, prepared to subject vourselves to a liability of being again divested of your liberties, by suffering democracy to trample on ed in its progress, will crush your rights. You should provide an anildote to counteract the balliful effects of democracy, since possessing the properties of the deadly night shade, every thing withers at its delegat touch-This we learn from woful, casion. So experience. It is in your power, freemen of Maryland, to furnish this antidore by giving a majority of your suffrages in favour of the federal cieket throughout the state at the ensuing election. Can you for a mon ment entertain the idea that the mocrats are the champions of freedom; when they have already lopped from the tree of liberty some of as most luxuriant branches, and will should you put them in power again, lay the axe to the root, which you should, by all proper means prevent their doing, sin e their defeat depends entirely on yourselves. CALVERT.

For the Maryland Gazette,

To the Voters of Maryland. It is highly probable, that, had not the scrutiny, relative to the Calvert election, engrossed a considerable portion of the attention of the house of delegates at their last session, some if not all of the plans alluded to in my former communi cation, would have been carried into operation by the opposite party -but this violent effort, to deprive the freemen of Maryland of their constitutional rights, involved the democrats in such difficulties, that they were unable therefrom to ex tricate themselves, and had to re tire from the scrutiny with something little short of dishonour. Though a paragragh, under the editorial head in the Baltimore Patriot, unblushingly charges me with having made "suggestions infamous ly false" in regard to the "ambitious" views of Baltimore, yet, it is an undeniable fact, that the democrats of that city have themselves said, that Baitimore ought to have a delegation in proportion to her population. It is also a positive fact, that Baltimore a few years since endeavoured to withdraw from Annapolis her two delegates for the purpose of securing them to herself. Had she succeeded in accomplishing this object, there scarcely remains a doubt, but that she would have increased her demands on the legislature, but being fortunately baffled in this attempt to aggrandize herself, she urged her ungracious pretensions no farther. The author of the piece above mentioned is egregiously mistaken when he asserts that I evince towards Baltimore "the most inveterate hatred?" So far from having dislike to Baltimore, I wish to see her flourish, since her prosperity will be benefi cial to the state-but I must at the same time acknowledge, that I do not wish to see her rise at the expense of the rights of freemen. It seems that the labricator of that piece has an utter aversion from every thing the least resembling propriety of language, or he would not, as he has done, have indulged himself in using indecorous epithets, which is but an ill contrivance to refute facts -and all that I have to say in regard to his attempt at criticism is, that "of all the cants which are canted in this canting world, though the cant of hypocrites may be the worst, the cant of criticism is the mist insufferable." Voters of Maryland, you consider it, I presume, no laughting matter to be stripped of your rights, as has been done by the very men whose avowed champion is the writer of the morceau served up with so much gout under the editorial department of the Patriots. To be deprived of your rights by a democratic legislature, is, I apprehend, something too serious to be made a jest of, tho' this would be-critic may think there is no harm in langhing freemen out of their rights as he is attempting to do. At least by vindicating the designs of Baltimore, he is contending against your rights- rights which all enjoy in common, and which prevent the rich man from domineering over the poor man-for though a man may be as rich as Creesus, yet he is entitled to but one vote at an election as well as the poor manso that the poor man in a constitutional point of view, has equal privileges with the rich man. Voters of Maryland, I again urge you to beware of the danger that awaits you, should the democrats get the ascendancy this fall, since they are no doubt prepared still farthem, while acting in hostility to ther to jeopardise your liberties. On Tuesday 21st, at the sugges. tion of a friend, half a spoonful of water was dropped into her month by way of experiment, and it immedistely produced the most frightful, spaams and deprived her altogether of the power of swallowing. From next morning she was attacked with these apasms, in succession, with short interests, during which she barked, snores and snapped af-ternately likes dag; seizing the bed clothe with her teeth growling and shaking them in her mouth, with a quick motion from side to side, as that animal does when he gets a smaller one into his mouth, and intends to kill it. She jumped up and run round the room on all fours in creasing in rapidity, and yelping like a whiffet, that was in pursuit of some game of which it appeared on the track; and she became more and more violent, until it was found necessary to confine her on a bed.

This day, in a lucid interval, she for the first time, told het parents of the circumstance that she had been bitten last year in the arm, by the little dog in the barrel, as she was attempting to feed him, and that the reason she had not told of it before, was because she was afraid her father would whip her, as he had promised he would if she went to the stable.

In evening, Drs. Barnes and Cooper of Pougnkeepsie, and Dr. Heaton of Plattekill, were sent for to hold a consultation upon her case. They found the patient in the most deplorable situation; an agitation of lusion by the most alarming sympthe whole frame, perpetual restless - I ness, hurried and laborious respiration, bloated face, contracted features, eyes suffused with blood and staring wild, and the power of swallowing entirely gone. To ascertain whether the disease was hydrophobia, they took an empty bowl and a pitcher of water, went unobserved into an adjoining room, and opening softly a door near the head of her bed, but unperceived by her, poured it into the bowl, so that she could hear the noise, and no sooner did the sound reads ner ear, then it instantly three her into the most vio-lent convult. This experiment was repeated by Dr. Heaton, the next day, in the same manner, and with the same effect, at a time when her mind was intently engrossed with a hymn book she was reading aloud, in the presence of several neighbours. The moment she heard the noise of water, uncontrolable spasms seized her whole frame .-Warm teas she could hold in her mouth without ap arent difficulty. but cold water she could not endure to touch, to look ar, nor even to hear the name of water mentioned. During their stay, upwards of an hour, she rose from her bed, as she before had done in the presence of Dr. Saturday the 18th, she felt Benton, on Monday evening, and commenced a kind of a trot in a cirele round the room, * frothing and keeping up a constant yelping, resembling that of a small dog upon the scent, topious and viscid sa-liva the west time running from her open wout). She continued this action with increasing velocity, until becoming exhausted she fainted in the arms of somebody who stood ready to catch her. Similar. paroxysms occurred often every day mered an emetic, which operatand night throughout her illness .well, but with no perceptible The nature of the disease could no effect-about the middle of the longer be mistaken. While the messenger was gone for the scullcap, Dr. Gedney the tending physician, arrived, and ordered that a piece of linen should be folded, and thoroughly wetted with ether, then laid across her throat, and kept there soaking wet. In about half an hour the power of swallowing returned, and to the surprize and joy of her mother, she heard her daughter ask in a low them both, if she had been whisper for a tea-spoon full of wine; of the case of Mary Tice, do here.

which, with no little difficulty she got down, and asked for another and then another, which were given her with the same success. By this sime, the scullcap same, of which a attong tes was immediately prepared, by pouring a quart of boiling was ter upon a half ounce of the pulverised herb, and as soon as it was ready it was presented to her; but after attempting once or twice to swallow it, she declared she could not. At this critical moment, it fortunately occurred to her mother to mix a large spoonful of the tea with an equal quantity of the wine, which she offered her; and found it set well. Her drink was then repeated every ten or fifteen minutes during the night, lessening gradually the quantity of the wine, and increasing that of the tea until she was able to take the latter alone, and actually took a quart mug full before morning .-As she had tasted nothing solid since the day before at noon, she asked for something to eat, and men tioned pump in pie, as what she should like of which a large piece was procured and she ate it without experiencing the least inconvenience.

From this time she made the tea her only drink accompanied with the sulphur as directed in the recipe. and was going on gradually mending, when, strange to relate, her parents, with a fatuitous credulity, suffered themselves to listen to wandering impostor who engaged, if they would lay aside all their teas and trust in him alone, to cure her in less than a week; and they actually discontinued the use of the scull cap for rather more than 36 hours. But they were roused from their detoms of returning hydrophobia .-They immediately recommenced the use of the tea, and gave it in strong and often repeated doses, once every 15 minutes or oftener, as she could bear it. It happened to be in time, and proved effectual in master ing the disease; but was followed by the loss of the use of her lower limbs. accompanied with total blindness. for nearly two days. To use her mother's expression, "she had no biting fits after this;" which was a fortaight from the time of the first attack. The impostor who had nearly been the cause of her death was, on the complaint of some of the neighbours, arrested and carried before a justice of the peace upon a warrant under the vagrant act, but discharged, on his expressing his contrition with a promise of amendment and departure. Although the curative effects of the scull can continued to manifest themselve daily in the removal of the principal case, yet, she complained much of a pain in the wound, attended with great swelling in the arm, she was still tormented with excruciating pains in the head, accompanied by an indescribable heat in the pit of her stomach, which she said burnt her up; nor had the tumor in her arm pit ever subsided .-Dr. Gedney took from her arm, 16 ounces of blood, which was found to be in a dissolved state: but om:tting for some reason, to repeat the operation. It afforded only a temporary relief, at the end of a week her head ache returned with its former violence; nature, however, stepped into her assistance, and by a spontaneous and copious bleeding at the nose every day or oftener, freed her from this distressing symptom, For the burning in her stomach he ordered a glass of lime water, to be taken three time a day. And for the glandular welling under her prm, 75 grains of calomel to be divided into five equal parts; of these three of 15 grains each, to be given, one every other morning, with a fever powder to be given on the day's the calomel was omitted; another part to be divided in two, and given at twice, and one to be divided into four equal parts and given' every morning; the sulphur to be wholly suspended during the time of taking the calomel, but the scullcap to be continued in somewhat diminished doses .- In a little more than a week the glandular swelling in her arm pit entirely disappeared; the burning in her stomach left her; the wound in her arm supurated, broke and discharged for about ten days, when it thing remained but to perform the entirely healed; and at the expiration of six weeks no vestige of disease was to be perceived; nor has the least symptom of hydrophobia shewed itself since. The following certificate by the respectable physicians who attended the patient, or saw her in consulta tion will form a proper and satisfactory conclusion. "We, the subscribers, whose names are mentioned in the above report

by certify, that as far as it relates to us individually, is is correct. And further, we do give it as our opinion: First, that Mary Tice was seized with hydrophobia, in consequence of the bite of a mad dog, as stated in said report: Secondly, that she recovered from the disease, as there likewise stated; and Lasly, that the plant, called scutellarin lateriflora, or scull cap, was successfully employed in the cure of said disease. WM. GEDNEY, JOHN BARNES, WHN COOPER BARNABAS BENTON ADNA HEATON?

I may now be permitted to remark that it is hardly probable that there will ever occur another case so decidedly demonstrative of the medical properties of the scutellaria as above. Indeed, the imagination could scarce. ly fancy a tissue of facts better calculated for such purpose. The disease was completely formed, and d ssolution, with sure and rapid strides, op ching, when this humble tant terposed and arres-ted its progress; a strong and unexpected occurrence suspended its use; the disease resumed its sway; at this critical moment the plant was again resorted to, and again was the disease obstructed in its course, a deventually mastered .-How irresistable is the conclusion that forces itself upon every mind not warped and poisoned by proju dice? This case also shows how essential it is to have a judicious physician at hand to aid the operation of the scullcap, and lend assistance in any exigence that may occur in the course of the disease. The timely interference of Dr. Ged ney in the latter stage of it, reflects great credit on the discernment and practice of that gentleman. Indeed the above case is pregnant with matter to exercise the judgement of both practical and theoretical men, wherever it is read. That it may be productive of the great benefit to the community that he so ardent ly hopes for a the heart-felt wish of the editor.

*A person who witnessed this singular symptom, mentioned that he once had eight sheep bit by a mad dog, and that they were every one affected in precisely a similar man-

Il am aware that this barking has been ridiculed by some medical writers, but the witnesses all unite as to this fact, and fidelity to the truth did not allow me to suppress it .-The respectable Dr. Heaton stold me that had he been riding past the house and heard the poise, he should have no idea but that it proceeded from a small dog. That this fea ture of the disease is not mentioned or observed by some respectable authors, may be accounted for by adverting to the fact, that scarcely any two cases of hydrophobia tes mble each other in all their symptoms

NAPLES.

Another Revolution .- The papers furnish us with partial accounts of a revolution which has been effected in the government of Naples. Like the late miraculous revolution in Spain, this has been accomplished instantaneously, unexpectedly, and with but little blood-shed. This event appears to have been brought about by the Muratists, who have now been placed in the Ministry .-It will be seen by the articles below that the Constitution adopted at Na. ples, is in effect the same as the Constitution of the Spanish Cortes. It is stated in a Paris article, that after the insurrection broke out, two regiments of the line, who were sent to quell them, joined them. The King, reposing confidence in a General, who had promised him to restore order, entrusted him with six regiments. When he arrived in the presence of the insurgents, he imitated Ney, and exclaimed, "Long Live the Constitution."

The Constitution which they desired, was one formed in the time of Murat, but which had never been carried into execution. Immediately after the defections above stated. the King declared that he would form a constitution in eight days .-But the people would not consent to the delay. They sent a deputation to the king, requiring the Constitution of the Cortez to be signed in 24 hours. His Majesty immedi ately abdicated in favour of his son, who issued the proclamation which will be found below. This, how ever, did not give satisfaction. they ipsisted that the Constitution should be immediately adopted, signed and proclaimed by the King himself .-Subsequent advices, though not official, state that this demand was com plied with. His Majesty confirmed the promise made by his son and pledged his faith to swear fidelity to the Constitution before the Provinlord chancellor, lord Holland, cial Junta about to be formed, preparatory to his taking the oaths before a general Parliament lawfully assembled.

The Provisional Junta is to consist of 20 members. No disposition to molest the royal family appeared The old cockade of red has been supplanted by one of three colours, which the soldiers had mounted.

The Paris Journals state, that a monget the new ministers is general Telanquire, a distinguished officer under Murat.

On the meeting of the Cortez, the King attended the Hall, accompanied by the Queen and the Infantas. On reaching the Hall they were received by the deputations of the members, one of which accompanied the Queen to the tribune which had been prepared for her, that she might enjoy the spectacle of a solemn ceremony. The other deputation waited upon the King. When the King entered, all the members stood up. The multitudes in the galleries could not retain themselves, but burst forth into Vivas. The King took his seat on a magnificent throne. The President of the Cortez proceeded to receive the King's oath. The Bishop of Seville then delivered an address to the King, to which His Majesty replied.

In the house of commons, on the 24th of Ju'y, Mr. Wetherell moved for the prosecution of the editor of the Western Luminary, for a libel on the queen. His language was. "Shall a woman who is notoriously devoted to Bacchus as to Venusshall such a woman as would, if found on our pavement, be committed to Bridewell and whipped, be held up in the light of suffering innocence?"

Extract of a letter from Naples, dat. ed the 6th July.

In the night of the 1st inst. some soldiers and officers deserted from the garrison at Nola, and proceeded towards Avellino, a small town situated a short distance from Naples. They were accompanied by some of the inhabitants-all shout. ing "the Constitution forever!"--They were also joined by some of the militia of that province, whom Gen. Pipe had recently organized. Their threats and insinuations had no effect on the regular army until about three days, when through want of strength or connivance, the latter joined the insurgents, who forced the authorities of Avellino to proclaim the Constitution, declaring they would take for their model that of Spain. Shouts, however; of long live the King!" were mingled with those of 'the Constitution forever!' but the cry was at the same time, down with ministers.'

During two days several regiments were marched from Salerno, Naples and Capua, commanded by various generals to attack the insurgents .-Two regiments, however, deserted | ments which may be necessary to inaurgents. As soon as his majesty was informed of the desertions, be assembled the Council at 6 in the morning, a Proclamation was posted up, in which his majesty declares, that the nation having manifested ita wish for a constitution, he had determined to give them one: that he was occupied in arranging the basis of it: and that the aarangement should be known in eight days .-The troops in the mean time are desired to return to their quarters, and the inhabitanta their accustomed occupations.

Although we are in the focus of the revolution, we are perfectly tranquil. The city guard is suffi cient to maintain good order, and no fears are entertained.

Naples, July 6. On the night of Sunday 2d July, small corps of cavalry marched out of Nola, accompanied by some offi cers. They displayed the tri-coloured cockade. Their first movement was upon Avelino, where they were fired upon by a battalion of the Tamnite regiment. In the course of the day the Insurgents were reinforced by great numbers of the peasantry and the tower war laken, the battalion disarmed, and the civil authorities obliged to swear alleg ance to the Constitution. The Neapolitan government was altogether unprepared for such events, and being perhaps deficient of troops in the garr son at Naples, they delay ed any attack upon the Insurgents, until the latter had collected an imposing force.

The royal troops at length made some movements; one column took up a position on the Nola road; another of those marched to Nocera, and the whole were put under the command of Generals Carascora .-These arangements led to an expectation, that an attack would be made upon the insurgents, but the spirit of the troops opposed to them rendered a retrograde movement neces sary, and a General Peppi set off clandestinely from Naples, and put himself at the head of the disaffected troops and decided the affair .-Minchino, a canon of Nola, and a man of considerable ability, is a lead ing character among the Insurgents.

PROCLAMATION OF THE KING

"The general wish of the Kingdom of the two Sicilies for a constiutional government having mani fested itself, we consent to this, of our full and entire will, and promise to publish the basis in the space of eight days.

"Till the publication of the Constitution the existing laws shailcontinue to be in vigour.

"Having thus satisfied the public wish, we order the troops to return to their corps, and every individual to his ordinary occupation.

NAPLES. July 6.

On the same day, the King abdiated the throne, to his son Francis, who the next day issued the following proclamation. "By virtue of the act dated yes terday, by which his majesty, our august father, has transmitted to us, with the unlimited clause of the Al. ter Ego, the exercise of all rights, prerogatives, pre-eminence and faculties, in the same manner as they can be exercised by his majesty;

ALI PACHA.

Letters from Epirus are said to state, that Ali Pacha, on receiving orders from the Porte to evacuate some Provinces, had a conference with Sir Thomas Maitland, but was not encouraged to hope for any and sistance from the British government. He then returned to fanina, and summoned a council of the most distinguished Turks of the country. The Torks advised subhe did not choose to follow. He then called together the Greek clergy and notables, and addressed them in a long speech, in which he apologized for the aggressions he had committed on that people by stating that he had been driven to those severities by the necessity of his situation. A copy of the speech attributed to the Pacha is given .in the French papers, but with some doubt as to its authenticity. It is said, however, that he appeared next day in public, with the Archbishop of Jannina by his side, and that they both proceeded to set an example. of working on the fortifications .-On the same day he disarmed the Turks, and made them deliver hostages to him. He also took hostages from the Albanians, though they adhere to him, notwithstanding that they profess the mussulman religion. He has caused a proclamation to be read in the Greek churches, inviting the people to take up arms for the defence of their religion. He offers every one that enlists, a bounty of 100 piasters, and 40 piasters a month of pay. These terms have procured for him a great number of recruits .- He is said to have an army of 50,000 men, more than 3-5ths of whom are Greeks.

London, July 17. THE QUEEN.

The queen has been led into an error respecting the plate which his late majesty allowed her to use while in Kensington palace. The king could not make a present of the plate belonging to the crown. It is not unusual for an order to issue for plate from the jewel office to a princess of the blood, while resident in any of the royal palaces. Such an order was made for her majesty white princess of Wales, and a similar issue was made for the Duke of Cambridge, but they both sent them back, and they were returned to the jewel office.

THE LATE DUKE OF CUMBERLAND.

Mr. Peter Moore presented to the house of commons on Friday last a petition from a Mrs. Olivia Serres, in which the lady asserts herself to be the legitimate daughter of the Duke of Cumberland,-The following are said to be among the documents by which this royal descent can be proved, and if they are authentic, the lady may perhaps be more successful in establishing her own pretensions to a high birth, than she has been, or is likely to be, in proving that her father, Dr. Wilmot, wrote the "Letters of Junius."

"George R .- Whereas it is our royal command, that the birth of Olivia, the doke of Cumberland's daughter, is not to be made known to the nation during our reign; but from a sense of religious duty, we will that she be asknowledged by the royal family after our death, should she survive ourselves, in return for confidential services rendered ourselves, by Dr. Wilmot, in the year 1739.

WILLIAM WARFIELD, Will be a candidate to represent Anne Arun del county in the next Legislature of Mary Aug. 26.

Extract of a Letter, dated Prince George's County. Sept. 6, 1820. "We have nothing to fear here from democracy. The shameful negligence which last year lost us a part of our ticket, will this year be atoned for. The democrats have had recourse to a variety of mean & petty artifices to injure the popularity of our ticket, but they have all proved fruitless; and I can assure you that it will triumph by a very imposing majority. Ilis Excellency has been very active in his exerti ons, but his influence is but small, small indeed. He has never been able to succeed when a candidate for the county, and were he now eligible, with all his official influence and patronage attached to him he still would fail of success,"

For the Maryland Gazette.

We learn that the stale charge against the late Governor Goldsho rough, of his being immical to the interests of the District of Columbia, has been revived in Prince-George's, and that the democrats have made it a ground of electioneering. They state, that should the federal party succeed, Mr. Goldsborough will again be made the Governor. and that therefore the federal ticket ought not to be supported. A charge so false and unfounded, and an argument so ridiculous and absurd, we should have deemed altogether unworthy our notice, but for the high respect we entertain for the honourable gentleman whom it is thus attempted to calumniate. We know not whether this distinguished gentleman would again consent to accept of the chief magistracy, were it offered to him. Indeed we have too much reason to fear that he would decline it, but we feel no hesitation in saying, that there is no man in Maryland whom we should prefer as Governor of the State.

We now proceed to assert that the charge is as faise as it is malicious, and as base as it is designing; and we further assert, that so far from Mr. Goldsborough being hostile to the District, he has manifested an equal, if not a greater regard for its welfare, than any of his predeessors, not excepting even the Prince-George's Governors. It appears then that Mr. Goldsborough's hostility to the District is inferred from his votes in Congress in the year 1815, on the subject of the regoval of the seat of government. and the rebuilding the public edifices what those votes were.

The first thing upon this subject is Mr. Fisk's "Bill for the temporary removal of the seat of governwhen read, Mr. Rhea of Tennessee, moved to reject the bill: Mr. Stockton moved to adjourn; a motion for adjournment baving the preference of all others, the question was taken and lost, Mr. C. Goldsborough voting against adjournment.

Page 70. Question was put on Mr. Fisk's bill, "shall the bill be rejected," question lost; but Mr. C. Goldshorough voted to reject it.

Page 72. Question taken, shall the bill be engrossed and read a third time, (meaning Mr. Fisk's bill for the temporary removal of the seat of government) it was determined in the negative, which was equal to rejection, Mr. C. Goldsborough voted against its bring engrossed, and read a third time. In all these votes, Dr. Kent, of Prince-George's, voted with Mr. C. Goldsborough, and Dr. Kent knows this

Here then was a final settlement of the question about the removal of the seat of government, for after this vote, it was not attempted again. Can any thing be plainer? A bill is brought in by Mr. Fisk for the removal of the seat of government, the question is taken upon it, and Mr. Goldsborough votes against it, and so did Dr. Kent, and yet Mr. Goldsborough is called an enemy of the District, and Dr. Kent is said to be its friend. What an insult to the enlightened Freemen of Prince-George's to suppose they can be imposed upon by such miserable sophistry as this!

After Mr. Fisk's bill for the re moval of the seat of government was rejected, the next proceedings we read of on this subject relate to the particular location of the public buildings in Washington. On this subject much difference of opinion existed amongst the warmest friends of the District. Some wished to place the public buildings on the Capitol hill, others wished them near the President's house; some wanted them at one place, and others at another. We do not know at what particular part of the city Mr. Goldsborough wished them placed; all we know, and all that is necessary to be known, is that Mr. Goldsborough voted for their being placed in the city of Washington, and for continuing the scat of government there, which has been proved beyond all contradiction or denial. We know not whether governor Sprigg, who we understand has been very busy in electioneering, has had any agency in circulating this calumny-if he has, he deserves the reprobation of all honourable men. We assert it as a fact, which he cannot deny, that at the period of his arrival at Annapolis to take the oaths of office, he expressed much regret that governor Goldsborough had left the city, and spoke of him in terms of unqualified commenda-

It now remains to prove our other assertion, that the governor has manifested a warm regard for the prosperity of the District. To do this, it is only necessary to make the following extracts from his address to the legislature, and his letter to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, written while he was governor.

Extract from Governor Goldsbo. rough's Address to the Legislature. "The roads and canals connected with the prosperity and advancement of our own commercial metropolis, and those leading to the city of Washington and Georgetown, which although ceded from our jurisdiction, ought not to be on that account, less the object of our regard and justice, form the most extensively useful and important parts of any system of internal improvement, we can propose to your consideration."

Extract from Governor Goldsbo. rough's Letter to the Secretary of the Treasury U. S.

"The river Potomac, ever since the institution of our government. has been deemed to present, in a political view, considerations of the first magnitude. As it offers on the map the nearest, and apparently the best communication with the navigable waters of the Ohio, it has frequently received the atpublic men who directed the affairs of government; among whom, president Washington was distinguished by his zeal. The powerful effect of good roads, canals, and other commedicas channels of in. hope to injure his party.

ich bind together the inhabitu different sections of country. been long felt and acknowledge From the carliest settlement of the regions west of the Allegany mountains, it has been thought au object of vital interest to connect them as closely as possible, by opening and facilitating every channel of intercourse with the Atlantic. The facilities afforded by navigation are superior to all other; and it has long been hoped that the Potomar would afford the route and the means of constructing a navigable canal connecting it with the waters of the Ohio. The Potomac company claiming under their charter a property in the river, has (if is believed,) not yet fully explored the upper sources of the river with a view to that object; and it is the more to be regretted that this company is permitted to languish under pecuniary difficulties, as recent information, (more parlicular as the mountainous county is pervaded and opened,) renders it highly probable that there exist communications not beretofore known; and in particular, one through gaps or breaks in the mountains, where it would be practicable to lead a canal whose highest elevation would be commanded by a copious stream lona feeder.

The natural advantages of the country are, it is believed, not fully explored. But the remuneration offered to individual enterprize is too precarious and distant to expect much from that quarter; and it does appear, that there is no object more worthy of national protection, (in every view of it affecting the dearest interests of the republic,) than a great water communication between eastern and western states.

The views here taken of the true policy of the general government, receive a conclusive proof of their justness from the care which the national representatives have bestowed on the Cumberland Turnpike Road. That road commencing on the Potomac, and which will be completed in a little time to Wheeling on the Ohio, remained unconnected with the great post road leading through the Atlantic cities. The state of Maryland has, however, from her own resources, and from the enterprise of her citizens. nearly filled up this interval by making, (with the exception of 10 miles not yet provided for,) a continuous paved road, from Cumberland to Baltimore, and on the same construction as the national road.

The completion of these roads, (a distance of 130 miles nearly,) has borne heavily on Maryland; and more particularly as the unexampled derangement of the monied concerns of the country has made the contract undertaken by the banks, (namely, to make the road from Conococheague creek to Cum- of Montgomery lend their aid to berland, a distance of 58 miles.) vate to the speaker's chair the oppressive and onerous in the ex-

Those institutions have however, to their honour, persevered through the most distressing times; and the whole distance is under contract to be delivered, fully completed, by the last of December 1820. When it is considered that this road is the direct route from the national road to the City of Washington, the immediate interest of congress in its establishment will be perceived."

Now let us ask, what governor has ever manifisted a greater interest for the prosperity of the District? Has governors Bowie or Sprigg ever made it the subject of an address to the legislature, or have they ever written about it to the Secretary of the Treasury, the President or other Heads of the Department? Does Mr. Goldsborough feel no personal interest in the prosperity of the District? His daughter and son-inlaw reside there, and have considerable property in it. The truth of the matter is, that those unprincipled men who have advanced this false and malicious charge against Mr. Goldsborough, knew it to be false and malicious, and they have advanced it for no other purpose than to injure the party to which Mr. Goldsborough is attached. They knew that he stood high in the estimation of his fellow-citizens-they knew him to be a man of enlightened views, of distinguished talents, of inflexible integrity, of the purest patriotism, of conciliating manners, and of pleasing address. Hence then these slander against him -they dread his influence, they dread his popularity, and by endeavouring to calumniate him, they Democratic paper contains a piece slanderous to my character as Treasurer of the Eastern Shore; it seems expedient that I should repel the murderous shaft by the best means in my power. I have therefore though in the most effectual way to publish in deposition, which is in the following words.

The deposition of William Richardion of Caroline County, Treasuret of the Eastern Shore of Mary. land being in the eighty sixth year of his age, deposeth, and saith .-That all the bank notes he hath paid into the Western Shore Treasury since he came into office, were received from State Debtors at their expressed, value, that'he hath not at any time, purchased, received, or taken any bank note or notes at less than the value borne on the face of such note, that he is no speculator, peculator, or swindler, nor ever was such, that wis hande are clean.

This deponent will just add, that all the above bank hotes paid into the Western Shore Treasury, were received in obedience to the laws of the State, the general practice of receiving bank notes, and the resolutions of the General Assembly.

WM. RICHARDSON. Taken and sworn to this 7th day of September, 1850, before me, the Subscriber, one of the Justices as signed to keep the peade in and for Caroline County, in the State of Maryland. W. POTTER.

N. B. The deponent espects that the Editor of the Annapolis Democratic Paper will have theliberality to insert this deposition in his paper.

MARYLAND ELECTION. Assertion is not proof, and, it is general observation, that the more doubtful a man's cause is, the more positive is he generally in his declarations. If we should make this observation the foundation of our conclusions, and regard to the opinion of the editor of the Baltimore Patriot, as to the result of the approaching election in Maryland, we might calculate, with no small degree of assurance, that the gentleman had very little expectation of the party succeeding, whose cause he is earnestly endeavouring to promote. We have noticed, for this sometime past, that his assertions has been of the most positive kind, without the shadow of a reason to support them. Whatever others may think of them, so far from their convincing us that they are the ac. tual expression of his firm conviction, we have only viewed them as indications of strong doubts in his mind, which he is desirous to conceal by the best means in his power.

When the federal nomination for Cecil county was made, seeing that he could say nothing against the character of the candidates, as they were of the most respectable and best qualified citizens, and troubled a little, pelitips, at the appearance of their names, he consoled himself with saying they could not succeed. It was all that his hopes and his fears would permit him to say, and it was probable that he supposed it better to say something, even if it was not of much consequence, than to remain entirely silent. On the 24th instant, he made use of the fol lowing convincing expression - We are perfectly convinced, and so are our republican friends, that their triumph at the ensuing election, is just as certain as any event, which depends upon their own exections."
It is almost to be wondered at that he did not say, they were sure of succeeding whether they went to the polls or not; and for the matter of lact, we imagine it would have been about as true. We trust, however-we will not say we are sure -but we trust they will be disap-pointed altogether. We hope and believe that Messrs, Milligan, Stump, Hyland and Janney, will succeed in Cecil, and that the federalists will have a decided majority in the next legislature. It is highly proper and necessary they should, for the men, who have had the go-

It is now fifteen years since the orf was placed on the head of honest -honest Hediah Schmidt. Poor Hediah was the occupant of little boutique-whence issued many a choice article for the epicure's ta-ble. Hediah was no scholar-and for him, Memnon and Faustus had laboured in vain. It was on a cold winter's evening that we received a visit from our honest townsman. He appeared, as usual, with his broad brimmed, sugar loaf crowned, grey, fur hat-and blue plush waiscoat, whose flaps nearly reached his knees. His was a modest request -"he coot needer reat also write," and he wished me to be his amanuensis. It was a letter to a friend in the country. He dictated and I wrote: the letter was was finished. "Tare is vun ting vich I vould mention," said Hediah, taking a huge quid out of his mouth and throwing it into the fire,—"tare and e ting vich I would mention, vich you may put in the letter"-"and pray what may that be, friend Schmidt?" Satisfactory information has been obtained respecting the fall of water in the Middlesex Canalwhich effectually removes any objection advanced against this port asto the want of sufficient tide for the above purpose. The report made last spring by these Commissioners to the Heads of Department in Washington, in which they selected Charlestown for the Northern Naval Depot, consists of such a chain of reasoning and calculation, upon the darious subjects which it discusses, and considered not only well connected in itself, but deciwe of the whole question.

In the bloom of youth and beauty, in the full vigour of life, and in the buoyancy of youthful spirits, she has failen an untimely victim to the king of terrors. The touching incidents connected with her life and death, have cast around her tomb a melancholy interest, beyond what similar events often excite. To her afflicted parents we would offer the nied of our sympathy, and bid them unt sorrow as one without hope." From the National Advocate. SCULL CAP.

In the Evening Post of Saturday last there is a strong and well attes. ted case of a cure produced by the Scull Cap, on a girl with confirmed symptoms of the Hydraphobia.

It has been said, by a distinguish. ed writer, "that ridicule is not the test of truth." Mr. Coleman has pursued this subject with a zeal, perseverance and humanity which reflects the highest credit upon him, because he was assailed in the progress of the inquiry by the sneers of the learned and the ridicule of the doubtfult his motives were not duly appreciated, and his labours were satirized as visionary and ephemeral. We, ourselves, lent no inconsidera. ble aid in spreading this mantle of satire over what we considered a harmless, inefficient plant, urged and administered by person who had not made human seases a particular study. When, however, such well attested cases of cure as the present are exhibited to view, we should deem it criminal to ridicule a plant possessing qualities so inestimable. There never has been a care discovered for the hydrophobia: it is a disease which hitherto has shut out hope; now a remedy has been found; it has been applied, and applied successfully-Why should we longer doubt its efficacy? We, theretore, would recommend physicians and apothecaries to supply themselves immediately with emple quantities of the scull cap, taking care to reject the spurious plant, which resembles the genuine very much, and which, probably, has been used and failed.

Mr. Coleman, in pursuance of his humane policy, has gone to considerable expense in pushing this enquiry; he can look for no other remuneration than the approbation of his own conscience, and the gratification which always must arise from the belief that he may be the means, under Providence, of saving the lives of his fellow creatures .-The scull cap has always been considered as a plant of inert qualities; but who would have thought, some years ago, that the plantain was an infallible cure for the bite of a rattlesnake? Yetso it is. Let us not judge hastily:

"Mickle is the powerful grace, that lies In herbs, plants, stones, and their true qualities. For month is vite that on the earth doth live. But on the earth some special good doth give, Within the rind of this small flower. Poison hasti rendence, and med'cine power. Shakespeares.

From the New York Columbian, Sept. 8. IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

By the favour of Dr. Mitchell we are enabled to lay before our real ders the following very interesting letter from J. Robinson, Esq. The magnitude of the discovery will not fail to arrest the attention of every one, and the surprize is that such an extent of ocean and so situated should not before have been generally known. It is said however, to have been discovered some years since by some American whalers, and the knowledge concealed for mercantile purposes.

Valparaiso, Jan. 23. 1820. Sir-I avail myself of an oppor tunity to write by the way of England, to notify you of a recent important discovery of land in the south seas.

In the month of February, of the current year, captain Smith, master of the British merchant brigantine Williams, on a passage from Buenos Ayres to this port, round Cape Horn, in lat. 61 40 S. discovered land. When he arrived here, he reported what he had seen, but most persons were incredulous. Mortified by this scepticism, upon his return passage to Montevideo, he sailed to the southward to ascertain whether he had been deceived or not; but meeting bad weather, and encountering ice, he was obliged to desist and prosecute his voyageyet without abandoning his original intention, or losing his sanguine belief in the existence of land in that neighbourhood. In Montevideo, he prepared his vessel rather better than common, and proceeded a settlement of the process of wealth—happing power, & evenue would be disclosed, and seie co itself be benefitted thereby. The land late discovered lies in the track of vessels bound into and out of the cond fime round the cape towards | Pacific Ocean. Valparaiso, and on the 15th of October was gratified by a second sight The water was then high continue to the fact and he sounded in sixty-five fathoms, in the Pauley Union Bank, in place and white sand and shells.—
The soundings gradually decreased to twenty-five fathoms and less, but of the same land he had seen before. to twenty-five fathoms and less, but colour as he approached the shore. Captain Smith was obliged to stand off and on, by a heavy swell until the 17th ult, when he landed in lat. 64 43 S. and 57 To W. longitude, by an observation and an excellent chronometer. Here he saw many seals sea-lions, whales, and sea-fowls-all perfectly fearless and unacquainted with danger. This land he calls a continent, and gave it the name of New-South Britain, upon which he hoisted the British flag.

On the north coast of this land there is a chain or line of Islands, from two to ten miles distant from the main, to which he gave the name of Penguin Islands. Between these Islands and the main land, there is a kind of channel, from two to ten miles wide, with some current-and in one place an appearance of breakers, produced probably by a narrow passage and sunken rocks. The passage there is not more than a mile wide, but captain Smith did not Captain Smith coasted to the west and west by south, sometimes inside of the Islands, at others between them and the main, to the latitude of 83 degrees 53 minutes southlongitude 65 west; the wind then blowing from the south west; he took his departure and sceered from the land north west by west, when it bore south and west, as far as could be discerned with good glasses, and with every appearance of its extending further. He describes the whole of this land, both the main and the islands, as being very high, even above the clouds, and the summits as having been covered with snow, and with generally a sterile, barren aspect, but with some indications of vegetation, shrubbery, and wood in the vallies and apper tures of the hills and mountains, and likewise with rivers and creeks. He stretched along this coast, three hundred miles, with generally cool, pleasant weather, but not having been properly provided with boats, he did not attempt to re-land, not withstanding he saw fine bays and sandy beeches.

Captain Smith saw many fish of all colours and sizes, and different denominations. The most remarkable resembled the cod fish of Cape Augully Bank, and the Isle Juan Fernandez. The whales were like those of Hudson Bay and Davis's Straits. Besides these, he saw a species of white whale and black

The soundings, or rather the matter drawn up with the lead, at seen them, and likewise a draught of the land, by a good hand. Capt. Sheriff, the commander of the Andromache, and other British naval forces in these seas, will dispatch a vessel in a few days to survey this land and report upon it.

Thinking this discovery may be interesting to you, sir, in as much as it may be the means of throwing a new light upon geography, navigation, and theory of the earth, I take the liberty to communicate the information in the hopes that the facts will be gratifying to the Lyceum and useful to society in general.

Permit me to hint, that it is probable many great discoveries are yet to be made in this hemisphere, and that much has escaped the most curious observers in the Pacific Ocean. Should the government of the United States, equip and com-mission a vessel with suitable per-sons for a voyage of discovery to this quarter of the world, I think that the government and nation would be amply rewarded by the acquisition of knowledge, in addition to the conscious satisfaction, arising from having patronised and promoted laudable intelligence, adventure and enterprise.

With great respect, I have the honour to be, eir, your most obedient humble servant, J. ROBINSON.

To the hon. Samuel L. Mitchell,

Transalted for the Phil. Gamette. ADDRESS O fihe Supreme Junta of Government in Spain to the Nationa

SPANTARDS!

After six years of a most heroic struggle, you saw yourselves overcome by an excess of loyalty, renounce, in your enthusiasm therefor your most precious rights, overrun the great political work which you had raised upon so many sacrifices. and abandon in fine the path of glory and of liberty on which you had so nobly entered; all this ought to have made you despair of a people thus apparently contented with its unfortunate fate, ever rising from the degradation in which it had sunk, and of re-establishing its august name among the majesty of na-

Such was indeed the general opinion of Europe, who said, that by a transformation onheard of in the annals of the world, Spain had retrogaded to the gross ignorance and profound darkness of the twelfth century: who, more insolent still. asserted that Africa commenced at the Pyrenees; who however, more sensible or more politic regretted that in order to be extricated from so mournful a state a cruel convulsion would be necessary, which, shaking the very foundations of the social edifice, would produce more dreadful effects than conflagrations or earthquakes. Vain injuries, vain fears, which the predigious events of six months. and the inconceivable originality of the Spanish character have repelled and dissipated. Yes, Spaniarus! the cry of Liberty, raised by our generous warriors on the plains of Yeres, was re-echoed by the shores of the Atlantic and Mediterranean; it resounded in Arragon and Navarre; it was heard in this heroic Capital, and at the august throne of our King: from that moment the will of the whole nation was accomplished; and the greatest enterprize in which a King and people could embark was commenced under the most happy auspices.

This unforeseen and splendid event was attended by circumstances rendering it truly new and singular. No violence, no vengeance, not a drop of blood. The very enemies of Liberty could view with tranquility this spectacle and move securely in the enjoyment of rights which they dared not claim in their days of triumph. The illustrious banished, walk from their prisons, return from their places of exile. and are the first to set an example of moderation and order. Astonish. ed Europe contemplates this sublime picture, and, admiring so many virtues, trembles still for Spain, still trembles for Liberty.

But this was not yet sufficient, it was necessary to give a more important but less expected example. The Constitution had been just proclaimed-the Monarch, acceding cheerfully to the wishes of a faithful people, had sworn to it with the most heartfelt pleasure, assembling round his throne the Junta who now addresses you, to againt him in the last undertaking of establishing the Constitutional system, to point out to him those measures which would harmonize with the public opinion, and to co-operate with him in the convocation of the National Congress, which ought to be the termination of our crisis as well as of the powers of the Junta. But from the very nature of things this desired assemblage could not take place as soon as public inquietude and impatience required; and the flattering hopes which the nation had placed on the Cortes were necessarily protracted. In the meanwhile the provinces might disunite, order be destroyed, and the bonds of union and of concord dissolved. All this presented to the enemies of Liberty a favourable opportunity, and a criminal probability of involving the nation in a fatal anarchy, in a civil war, the horrors of which would again conduct it to the abyss of evils from which it had just been liberat-

Health and eternal glory to the generous nation, whose mildness and virtues have enabled them to avoid such dangerous rocks! Health and immortal fame to the virtuous prince, who, placed at their head, LLD. President of the Lyceum knew how to lead them thro' perils of Natural History, N. York, &c. to the fulfilment of their desires! That period has passed away; order elect of Valledolid of Meshanone has been preserved; the malevolent passions have been buried in sifence or have marmured in secret, and nothing has been manifested but a noble love of good and of generous confidence. You proceeded, Spaniards, to elect your representa-

Neither power, nor riches, mat intrigue prevailed over you in the exercise of the most important and valuable of your rights; and so correct has been your aim, that, on hearing the names of representatives, the country believed it received them from the hands of wine dom and virtue. Finally the day of assembling dawns, the doors of the sanctuary are opened, the fathers of the state are seated, and, smidst the plaudits of an immense concourse, the monarch presents himself in alf the pomp of majesty, with all the splendour of his virtues, and fulfilling the royal word which he had pledged to his faithful people, he wears before heaven and earth to observe religiously the sacred compact, in which are defined the rights of the throne and of the most heroid of nations.

This is the beauteous day for which we have so long sighed; we are now paid for twelve years of troubles, of sacrifices, and of bitterness; on this day we ought to forget our past evils and deliver ourselves up to the sweet hopes which smile on us. And how can we avoid confiding in the united efforts of a megnanimous king, who has so strongly evinced his regard for our welfare, and of deputies of the most approved patriotism and wisdom? In is not possible. No. The Spanish national Congress appears like a fire in the midst of the political body to communicate to it the warmth of life, and give it action and energy. Great are the duties it has to perform, arduous the work committed to its charge, but acting closely in unison with the king its power will be greater; and the glory with which it will be crowned immense.

Oh Spaniarda! it is absolutely necessary that you also should aid with your docility and prudence. The wounds inflicted by so many ages of error, of ignorance and despotism cannot be instantly healed. The blessings of liberty, from being so inestimable, must always be obtained by time and sacrifices. Do not suffer yourselves to be tormented by impatience, nor listen to the seduc. tive voice of the malicious, who will ridicule your slow progress-Observe how nature periects her works by a slow and majestic march-Trees planted to day yield not fruit to-morrow, nor is health nor strength once lost to the human frame, regained in an instant. Your disease has been protracted, painful, mortal, and only by time and regular diet can you obtain that health which you so ardently desire. But doubt not its restoration; the good implore not in vais, nor is heaven so inimical to man as to suffer such sweet hopes to be blasted. And thou, Madrid, herois by ab many titles, thou, as the centre and capital of the State, hast so eminently contributed to our happy revolution; to thee, who happily holdest in thy bosom the national representation, the rest of the menarchy looks for an efficacious example of profound respect and consumate prydence. Thou wilt give it, and the demonstrations of adherence, of lave and of confidence, due to thee from the junta by which thou art now addressed, will not permit it to doubt the seatiments towards a Congress, deserving of the highest consideration. The Junta, in manifesting for the last time the purest gratitude which it justly owes thee, joyfully offers its congratulations on the good furtune with which thou hast consummated the great work commenced in March; inestimable confidence associated it with thee for the noble purpose then proposed; and if in the assistance and counsel rendered to thy beloved monarch it has corresponded to thy wishes, and crowned the enterprize, in this satisfaction alone it enjoys the most delightful recompense for its labours. FROM LONDON PAPERS, Received at the Office of the Commercial Advertiser,

London, July 28. The Morning Chronicle has the following paragraph to day:- "Accounts have been received of a very unpleasant kind, of the issue of the expedition under Sir William Carr to the Persian Gulf. Report s ys, that the Pirates, who in the first place abandoned the fort, which some time ago the public were informed had been quietly taken pos session of by the troops under Sir William's command, returned and made a formidable attack on the fort, in which the 47th & 64th regiments suffered severely. We have not heard all the particulars."

The Paris Journals of Tuesday fast have arrived this morning. The Moviteur contains a Royal Ordi nance, dated the 19th in. appointing several new Prefects, and authorising an interchange of jurisdiction between others: two have been superseded and called to fill the functions of Masters of Requests; three have been superseded without any motives being assigned: & the resignation of one has been accepted .-The following are extracts:-

Paris. July 25. "On Sunday it was reported, that M. Hyde de Neuville was appointed Ambassador at the court of the Bra zils, and that the Marquis de Reviere would give up the embassy at Constantinople, to succeed the deeeased count de Paysegur, in quality of captain of the guards of his royal Highness Monsieur.

Quotidienne. "The last letters from Naples do not announce any event or remarkable circumstance to have occurred since the 8th inst. From the 8th to the 10th, news was expected from Sicily, where it was supposed the recent revolution would have found more numerous parcisans than in the kingdom of Naples. With respect to the provinces which were the first theatre of the revolution, if we may credit letters now before us, it is easy to perceive that reflection has succeeded to factions and transitory enthusiasm. The Neapolitan people remember with a mixture of regret, that agriculture and commerce nourished under the tormer government, that the finances of the state were administered with economy, and that there existed a well grounded hope of the diminution of the taxes; it is now doubtful whether the benefits which are promised by the recent revolution will indemnify the nation for the positive good which she enjoyed. These reflections, say our correspondents, suffice to prove, that the Neapolitan people took little part in the revolu-

We have received Paris papers of Tuesday last. It is easy to collect from these, as also from other Continental Journals, that the people of Berlin are beginning to manifest serious uneasiness at the protracted postponement of their long-promised constitution. Some popular disturbances, accompanied by broils between the people and soldiery, agitated Berlin during the evening of the 11th, and some subsequent evenings of the month. The commencement of the tumult is attributed in the official, as well as in private accounts, to a drunken squabble between some workmen and the keeper of a tavern, when the latter called in the assistance of the military guard, and caused his antagonists to be arrested.

The seizure of these men collecsed a crowd of their comrades and other persons, who undertook to The troops used rescue them. their arms to drive off the crowd, but were themselves repulsed. Other troops came to their assistance, but the people were again victorious. Gen. Tauenzien and the Gen. Commandant Branchaet felre, found it necessary to bring into action the horse gen'darmes, by whom the multitude was at length dispersed. This occurrence cook place on the evening of the #1th, but for some succeeding evenings the people again assembled in the streets. The public suthori-. Lies, civil and military, adopted the the most vigorous measures, to prevent a renewal of the outrages, and It will be seen in our extracts from the Hamburgh papers, that an order of police was issued in Berlin on the 13th, to prohibit all meetings in the streets, even for the most inmocent purposes. It is stated that several persons were wounded in the contest. No doubt, we think, can be entertained, that the spirit which animated the people of Berlin to so very novel a proceeding in the Prusgran dominions as an attack upon the

of political independence which is now making rapid strides throughout the world. The king of Prussia has been too long amusing his subjects with the hopes of a free constitution, to flatter himself that he can much longer withhold it from their enjoyment.

In the mean time we find the King of Spain the object of the most enthusiastic popularity. Whenever he appears among his people his presence is greeted by the acclamations of thousands. His majesty is said to feel sensibly the happiness of the change that has been effected in his situation. The people of Spain mark in every way theirenthusiasm for the constitution and even every article of fashionable dress now bears the distinctive appellation of la Constitution.

Several ecclesiastics have been arrested at Seville, charged with having endeavored to excite commotions in that city. Measures of precaution have been adopted there by General O'Donoju the governor of Andalusia.

London, July 29.

By a mail which arrived this morning, we have received Dutch papers to the 20th inst. The folwing extracts are dated Berlin, the 11th inst:

"We remember that when the revolution broke out in Spain, the official Gazette of Berlin, at first affected to treat with contempt the endeavours of the constitutional party; and that after the events in the Peninsula had turned out favorable for that party, the same Gozette tried to demonstrate, in long articles, the illegality of the enterprise and of the constitution of the cortes in general. It seems that this conduct of the official journalists has given rise to complaints from the Spanish legation in this city and we have been truly astonished at reading, on a suiden, in one of the last numbers of our official journal. a long article, proving the legality and the legitimacy of the constitution of the cortes.

Within these few days the discount on bills of exchange has risen at Berlin to 8 per cent .- This rise is ascribed to the numerous specu lations which are now making here. as well as in other places, on the new great loan for 100 millions of roubles, now negociating for Russia by Mr. Rothschild of London. Great eagerness is every where shewn to subscribe to this loan, which offers great advantages to the subscribers. The most considerable sums have been subscribed at Lon-

The Paris Journals of Wednesday last arrived this morning. They supply no intelligence of any interest. Anarticle from Vienna states, the Persian ambassador arrived in that capital on the 13th inst.

Accounts from Madrid of the 15th inst, announce the arrest of the Curate Ortolodzi, who it is said is implicated in the conspiracy recently discovered at Seville. This ecclesiastic, under the late system, was a zealous advecate for the King, over whom it is alledged, he exercised great nfluence.

One of the most afficing and awful events ever remembered in this Ineighbourhood occurred at Thorncliffe Iron Works on Wed. nesday las .. - During the tremendous thunder-storm in the afternoon, the workmen, in presence of all the resident proprietors, were casting a tilt shaft, about five tons weight, in a perpendicular mould; when the casting was nearly complete, the liquid mass suddenly shot up like a cataract of fire from the orifice of a volcano, and mingled with clouds of heated sand, fell in red-hot flakes on every side. Of about 40 persons present 22 were burnt more or less severely; but particulars of the manner in which wounds and death were inflicted, during this dreadful explosion, would be too shocking for perusal. Three men perished on the spot, and six others have died since.

London, July 30. Since our last, (says the English man) a further call in Exchequer Bills has taken place, and all those dated in or prior to March 1819, are about to be cancelled, and exchanged for money or new bills. They will be received at the Exchequer till the 14th August, and the interest will cease on the 18th. The relief thus given to the Exchequer Bill market is considerable, but is not to that extent anticipated by the holders of these securities: since it still leaves an arrear of from twelve to fifteen months on a large portion of those in circulation, and majesty of the military power, is to | dated previously to April 1819. The be traced to the animating principle level of the funds on the whole is lower than on the preceding week by about 3 4 per cent but without any cause that may with justice be assigned for the depression. The shock was received on Friday, and was founded on the circulation of rumors of disturbances in the north; but although admitted to be untrue a consequent reaction of the funds did not follow. But for the apprehansion this rumour created, and which induced some very extensive sales, the determination of the Bank to take in the Omnium as usual, which was announced on Toursday. must have supported if it did not improve the existing prices of the funds. The market in Consols for the account closed yesterday at 68 7-8 to 69. Omnium at 1 4 premium, and Navy Fives at 103 5 8.

It is said that a cordon of troops is about to invest the metropolis, pending the ensuing trial of the queen, and that an encampment of 8000 men will be formed on Black Explosion of Gunpawder .- About half past ten o'clock on Wednesday night, the neighbourhood of the Bo rough road, St. George's helds, w.s thrown into a violent state of alarm, in consequence of a loud explosion of gunpowder, and other inflammable combustibles, at the house of Mr. Jones, an assistant fire-work. manufacturer to Vauxhall Gardens. Happily no lives were lost, and the hre occasioned by the explosion was soon got under.

We have inserted, in another part of our paper, her Majesty's answer to the address from the town of Wakefield. We entreat those, if there be any such, who conscientiously think that no factions attempts are making to connect this question with the most mischievous designs, to read that answer carefully and dispassionately. The proceedings which have been instituted are violently decried-malice and falsehood are imputed to her accusers-an assumption of power is denounced which spurns all limitation-and the House of Lords are invidiously selected, as aiming to "dethrone their lawful Queen!"-Lastly, there is an hypothesis which goes a step farther than her Majesty has yet advanced in any of her answers. "If I am condemned without justice-and dethroned against all law-the liberties of every individual will receive a fatal stab-and the character of the highest judicature will be blasted to the latest posterity." If! Why such a contingency imagined for a moment? England is not the country-British Noblemen and British Gentlemen, are not the personswhere, and by whom, the meanest in dividual can be-"condemned without justice." How then can England's Queen stand in that peril!-We are sorry to observe all this; and we are still more sorry to see her Majesty dwelling upon "an eventual triumph in the affections, of the people." Her only triumph must be the proof of her innocence before her Judges. It she fail there-which we pray she may not-what sort of triumph does she anticipate through the means of the people? - Courier.

To the Federalists of Maryland. To insure the triumph of federaism at the ensuing election, nothing more is necessary than activity and exertion. For two years past the federalists of Maryland have mani fested a most culpable apathy .--The result of the election last year, it has subsequently been clearly ascertained, was owing not to an increase of numbers on the part of the democrats, but to remissness on the part of the federalists. In Prince Georges' county the democratic ma-Jority was trifling in Talbot 19-In Cecil 20-In Kent 1-In Caroline 11-In Worcestet 9. These majorities are all very small, and we are assured that in several of these counties there were federalists enough to have elected the ticket, who neglect-ed going to the polls. On the 8th of February, the date of the report, they state, that they understood from the anditor general, that to furnish, the objects of expenditure, during those seven years, was impracticable in that session, which ended on the 15th of the same month! Why had they not applied gooner to him or limited themselves to a skotch of the great heads of expense? This would not have suited the complexion of the report.

But let us take it, as they have given it to as; and we shall yet disof their attending to use it as an offensive westpon. In the twelve years between 1000 and 1813, they collected a revenue amounting to two millions and five thousand dol-lars. Of this they invested $540,004. The federalists in their period of seven years, reeding 1812, received only $ 113.

Is there any foresight or a comm, in their inducing by their brasilul mis-statements an examination, which ends in results, so much to their disad-vantage? Oh! but the federalists (says they) left a debt of 72,000 dollars. This is not true; for the amount, alluded to, falls due this year, and was not therefore due by them; and if it were 40,000 dollars of it is owing for repairing the penitentiary, required by the conflagration, which is a permanent object, and they left much more due from the lotteries alone, than would pay the balance, exclusive of other credits. Again, they would have us believe the state has been vastly injured and impoverished by the allowance of some 1600 dollars to the late Governor Winder, for his actual services as commander in chief, in the field, and which proved so precious and conservatory. If no money were worse laid out than this, the federalists must have been as wise as immaculate. But say our adversaries, this allowance was rejected by the accountants of the general government. Be it so; but that will not alter the nature of justice. Among all the comptrollers and auditors at Washington, we believe there is no more than one professional man, and he sienderly endowed, and we would not degrade our state by companing the able and learned sanction, given to the claim secount of their management of the fainces. But even this recoils upat Annapolis, to the petty, clerical and unenlightened tribunal which rejected it at Washington, if it was rejected .- Ib.

In the concise view we lately took of the report upon the finances of the state, we made no mention of the proceeds of the Bank Stock, held by it in England, before the revolution, and which, in consequence of that event, was detained till Mr. William Pinkney's return from London, shortly after the career of democracy commenced in Maryland. This immense sum was then poured into its coffers, and considerably awells the prosperous statement they resided, and the twelve ante- make up of the finances, whilst in edens years, that they themselves their hands. We have said, that if all the votes on the Calvert election, declared by the House to be illegal, were admitted to be to; and if all their con-clusions from bearsay, as to which candidates hely voted for were cor-rect, still they could not make it appear, that Mesers. Beckett and Kont had a majority. Messts. Reyneeds and Blake had a majority of one over them, at the polls. According to the hearsay testimony, four of the rejected votes were for the federal ticket, and one other testified, that he voted for it. About the vote of Cochran, the testimony was contradictory. To one of the witnesses he had said he voted the federal ticket, to another he said he had voted for the above two democrats, but that he was too drunk to know, which he voted for heside .-Three of the voters testified, that they had voted for the democrats. As to four others no statement of any sort was produced to show for whom they voted. Without therefore ascertaining this essential fact, it cannot be known, which of the opposing candidates had the majority. Yet the House, which was not to be stopped by difficulties of any sort, decided as if they had a full knowledge of it .- Ib.

PINDLE'S ACCOUNT. Several columns of a late "Mary land Republican," are filled with abuse of Pindle, on account of an alleged error in the statement of his account, whereby, as it is said, he cheated the state out of sixty dollars. This error, it is said, escaped the notice of both the executive and the legisla to the fact is not so. The apparent rocaccurred in the copying of the Governor's communication-so soon as the printed copies of the Governor's communication made their appearance, in the house the error was discovered-application was made to Mr. Pinkney, Clerk of the Gouncil, for an explanation. He produced the original papers and accounts from the Council Chamber, and satisfied every person, that it was merely an error in the copying, and that no mistake had been made either by Mr. Pindle or the Executive. These facts are known to every member of the late House of Delegates.

It was stated in a late "Star" that at the very time Pindle was applying for further compensation, he was justly indebted to the state upwards of four hundred dollars. The fact is, that the claim of Pindle was referred to the present Governor and Council for adjustment, and so early as June last, the present Democratic Governor and Council, directed the payment of Pindle's claim, amounting to upwards of one hundred and ninety dollars! Now either the writer in the "Star" was nittaken -or the present Governor & council have been accessary to a coss fraud on the community. The pabmust determine between them. TRUTH.

CRICKET-A TALE.

A word spoken at random has ofen proved of more utility than the best concerted plans. Hence it happens that fools often prosper, when men of ta ents fail.

As an illustration of this asserti on, I shall present my readers with the following Tale, from a French periodical work called Forfeits Redeemed:

A poor simple peasant, of the name of Cricket, being heartily tired of his daily fare of brown bread and cheese, resolved, whatever might be the consequence, to procure to himself, by hook or by crook even at the expense of a broker head, three sumptuous meals. Having taken this courageous and nob e resolution, the next thing was to devise a plan to put it into execution, and here his good fortune befriend ed him. The wife of a rich Nabob in the neighburhood of his cottage. had, during the absence of her husband, lost a valuable diamond ring; she offered great rewards to any person who could recover it, or give any tidings of the jewel, but no one was likely to do either; for three of her own footmen, of whose fidelity brass, and surgounded with flames, leave to inform the public, he has she had not the smallest doubt, had he; 'I'll say I am a conjurer, and I will discover where the gem is hide den, on condition of first receiving three splendid meats. I shall fail, tis true. What thent I shall bo: treated as an impostor, my back and sides may suffer for it; but my hun-? gry stomach will be filled!"

To concert this scheme and put riosities; hoping his labour and assistic into practice was but the work duity might perhaps be encouraged of a moment; the Nabob still was abby men sensible of the incalculable sent. The lady, anxious for the readvantages deriving from the mar- covery of her ring, accepted the ofvellous wonders, of nature, and in- fered terms; a sumptuous dinner was Ahaustible attainments, literature prepared; the table was covered with and scientific employments, adorn rich viands; expensive wines of evety sort were placed on the sideboard. At one, we contemplate wi'h an Good Heavens! how he ate. Ad attentive footman, one of the secret thieves, filled him to donk; our con-jurer, gorged, exclaimed, Tis well 1 I have the first!" The servant trembled at the ambiguous words, and ran to his companion-the has found us out, dear friend,' he cried; 'he is a cunning man, he said he had the first; what could be mean but me?" 'It looks a little like it,' replied the second thief; 'I'. I wait on him tonight; as yet you may have mistaken his meaning; should be speak in the same strain we must decamp to

At night a supper fit for a court of aldermen was set before the greedy Cricket, who filled his paurch till he could eat no more. The second footman watched him all the while. When satisfied, he rose, exclaiming, ·The second's in my sack, and cannot escape me.' Away flew the afirighted robber-'We are lost!' he ried; 'our heels alone can save us.' Not so,' answered the third; 'if we ily and are caught, we awing; I'll tend him at to-morrow's meal, and, should he then speak as before, I'll own the theft to him, and offer some great reward to screen us from punishment, and that he may deliver the jewel to the lady without betraying us.' They all agreed. On the morrow our peasant's appetite was still the same; at last, quite full, he exclaimed, 'My task is done! the third, thank God, is here!'- Yes,' said the tremoling culprit here's the ring; but hate our shame, and you shall never want good fare again." Be sitent!' exclaimed the astonished Cricket, who little thought that what he had spoken of his meals could have made the plunderers betray themselves; 'be ailent! I have it all.' Some geese were feeding before the windows; he went out, He requests persons having, or and having seized the largest, forcdeclared that the large goose had swalowed the jewel. The goose was killed-the diamond found. In the mean time, the Nabob returned, and was incredulous. 'Some crafty knave, madam,' said he, 'either the thief or his abettor, has, with a well concerted scheme, wrought on your easy faith. But I'll soon try his powers of divination. I'll provide myself with a meal likewise.' No sooner said than done; between two dishes the mysterious fare was hidden; the false conjuter was told to declare what was the concraled cheer, on pain of being well beaten, should be fail. 'Alas!' he muttered out, 'poor Cricket, thou art taken.' 'He's right!' the Nabob cried; 'give him a purse of gold; I honour such talents as his.' It was a little cricket in the dish. Thus our glutton, by four random speeches, gained three hearty meals, a heavy purse, comfort for life, and a most brilliant reputation as a cuuning man.

For the Maryland Gazette,

To the Voters of P. Georges' Count

The "Independent Voter" says you ought not to vote for Semmes because he voted in lavour of a resolution to bring a printer before the House of Delegates to answer for an offensive letter directe I to, and published against Mr. "Nahh. a democratic Delegate from Talbor."

If this is vote sufficient to exclude Mr. Semmes from your confidence, it must be upon the constitutional doctrine that no man is to be called on even for an explanation of what he shall publish in relation to public men and measures, and that if any shall so do or by any ways & means silence the press, the great instrument of public liberty, in this country, such a man is not entitled to the public confidence.

This may be the constitutional doctrine, and if so such ought to be the exclusion, which the people should practice against its advocates. But we all recollect, that from the great Judge Patterson, down to our most excellent Judge and good man Judge Johnson, all the expounders of our constitution agree in opinion, that the liberty of the press consists in the right of the citizen to publish the truth, and not in the right to publish untruth. The right of the legislative body to punish a contempt against the mem bers or body, depends upon another principle of civil law. How far such bodies can exercise a summary punishment, has heretofore been deemed an unsettled question. We all know that in the cent and ce-lebrated case of A derson in the congress, the wisert Democratic he Ms, (I mean not Doctor Kent's) differed as to the constitutional power of the house; and yet whoever heard one of them assert that the advocates of such a power, merited the loss of the public confidence.— Such doctrine is alone adapted. when applicable to Mr. Semmes; for if it be true as to one set of public men, it must be true as to others. let them make this concession, and The offence, which was designed to be enquired into, and for which Mr. Semmes voted, was committed by a democratic Printer, against a de morratic member, James Nabb .-He shewed the publication to a de mocratic member, Kinsey Harri son-They deliberate on the offensive publication, decided that the House of Delegates have the power of punshing, and that they ought to exerose' it. The courtesy due to a member of the House, ensures the success of the motion; strangers are excluded, clerks are reminded of the secrecy, which is expected from them; and then this democratic genleman announces to the house in anguage des gned to excite their Ampathy for the aspersed individual, and detestation against the authat of his wrongs. In all this Mr. Nabb co-operates -lis soul is bent on brings g his victim before the house. Hisfriends lend themselves to his wishes. Hedid, vote in favour of a resolution," and so did all the democrats except four or five, to employ council to argue the constitutional power of the legislature, to enforce a bank, not deriving its act of incorporation from the state government, to pay a t.x. What ignorance, or what perversion does this partizan, in every step of his composition, es hibit? The state of Maryland had imposed an annual tax on our own Banks, the proceeds of which fare set apart for the education of the children of the indigent. The Bank of the United States located an office of discount in Baltimore. Its extensive capital enabled it to curtail the discounts of our own Bank, and then threatened, what has since has been real zed, to sink the value of the atate's interest, and that of its citizens, in our different Banks. It was deemed by the legislature advisable to lay a corresponding tax on that institution, and thus in some degree to repair the loss, the state would necessarly feel in the dimingtion of the Bank dividents. The office of discount and deposit refused to pay the tax; a suit wis instituted, and it became necessary that some counsel should be pul to ar gue the case in the Supreme Court o the U ited State . A resolution passed, Governor Goldsborough selected Walter Jones eng; a man of great learning, to argue on the part of the state. In this we see nothing but what is praise worthy, the attempt to encrease the revenues of the state, so as to guard against direct taxation, must be approbated by all except those who dread lest a portion of it should be set aside for the education of the poor. This may be the reason why the "Independent Voter," disapprobated the appropriation.

DETECTOR. September 28, 1820.

Md. Gazette To the Voters of P. Georges' County.

IN the politic struggle which now convulses our count, every suggestion which can better the endition of the democratic cause is present to the public consideration. Its advoctes disregard the injunctions of troth, aneassail the public charaeter of those to thom you have entrusted heretofore the pwer of legislation. This is however of anual recur ence The unprincipled of the party enjoy a political bomassacre of pute character. This howconsure has produed but little effect on the public sentiment I have heard that during he last week, a rentleman entitled to lis tinction, for the many political honours which he has received from our hands, en tered the list of delaimers, and at a public meeting at Marlbrough, indulged in stric tures upon his putical enemies, displaying alike the weaknes of his intellect, the bitter-ness of his political hatreds, and his hostility to measures esigned to promote the general happiness To Dr Kent I allude It was to have been anticipated, that when he assumed the atitude and posture of a public declarmer that he would have been a manly and intensors enemy; and that he would have elected as the ground of reproach against bose whose elections be opposed, measuresof general and state policy, and that he would have abandoned to his underlings, the dirty work of exciting the public teeling against his political ene mies for acts of legislation designed to give lu-tre, political intelligence and influ ence to this district of country; but which from their very nature might be tortu-edby unprincipled and party men to a disposition to promote the interest of the weakhy, enabled us to educate our childres at this while that of the poir was entirely lorgosten. seminary of learning, equal to thee of the If your representative in congress shall be conviced of this besieputable and dange rous design, and it is consict on shall ever be known to the members of the U States congress, what cause shall we have to 1 h for the patriotism and public sirtue of this district, in lelecting as a representa tive one who deeps it fair, and politically monest, to se ill scapons o' attack scains an exponent, nothi helanding such attack should eventually and acea feeling of hostile ty against a public institution from which Lieund to na . Therefore the legisla ture consolidated the lunds, and directed that trustees should be chosen from the three counties; after this consolidation, the school made considerable progress. The war of the revolution arrested its tide of prosperity, and it was doomed again to wither, from the want of resources Our county men Corington, Somerville, Wood, and the late Rinaldo Johnson, discovering the immense sums annually sent abroad for the educat on of the children of these coun ties, and at an expense which none but the most wealthy, such as Doctor Kent and governor Sprigg, could alone support, united their influence with men of signifact patriotism of the other counties, and the school was resuscitated. In 1.95, Calvert county was suffered to enter into the consolidation; and in 1798 the general assembly gave to Charlotte Hall the sum of eight hundred dollars annually, being at the rate of two hundred dollars for each county as. sociated in its management. Whatever honor the democratic party may claim for the acquirements of the present governor, it must be given to this seminary. My Stevens of the executive council, may also date his greatness to the institution. Indeed we recollect but few of the young promi nent men of our county, whose distinction and honours have not sprung from the wisdom and providence of this endowment, for the parents of but tow were equal to the expense of a foreign education. No farther registative grant was made to it till eighteen hundred and sixteen. In the intermediate larged by the receipts of the bank stock the muney thus received to Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Montgomery, Har-ford, Ceell, Kent, Tabot, Quesu Ann, Durchester and Somerset counties, from five to wight flundred dollars each annually for the support of their respective acade, mes. In eighteen hundred and sixteen, Calvert, Charles, Prince Georges, and St. Mary's, by their delegates from a principle of distributive justice, demanded from the ledition to the sum of eight handred dollars before given, should receive a sum equal to five hundred for each county; and so convinced were the legislature of the perfect equality of this request, that they granted to the school, in which the interest of the four counties had been so long consilidated, sum of $1200. Mr. Semmes was a member of the house, he supported the proposition, and now has the happiness of knowing that the trustees of this school have the means. by this donation, of adopting four children and have resolved to do so, (one from each of the consolidated counties) of indigent pa rents, and to cloath and to educate them, in a manner alike honourable to the institu tion, beneficial to the country, and to gladden the hearts of their ancient sires. Thus we may expect, at no distant day, to see some youth of our county burst upon the public gaze, become the advoca e of the people and display talents, which had it not been for this sum thus voted for by Mr. Semmes. (and not one cent of which comes from your pockets) would for ever have lied buried un der the chilling weight of the father's penary, and for such blessings as these, flowing from the agency of one of your caididates, can you banish him from your colfidence Can you, my fellow citizers, vithhold your suffrages from a man, who also has most wealthy and arrogant of our planters? It is their interest, and the interet of their ri ing offspring, to enhance the pece of tui-tion, for then their sons alone willbe learn ed, and enabled to rule and govers, for we all know that -learning is power".

Such policy and state regulations produc ing such a result may suit the ultrior de signs of the rich and p werful, whe arraign Mr Sem nes before you for a vob, which ought to unite the good of every party in his support, but whenever such costy institutions shall alone be found, then will commence the degrada'i mand serviture of everrank of citizens save that of the mot wealthy Never have these cavillers arainst Mr. remmes, in heir long legisla'i e life, suping and essential advantages will be derived y ou citizens; our child can now be as well educated and instructed as that of the Doc tor's, or the Governor's at an exper enfonce bunded & twenty dollars a year And, when it it was not for this syste c, thosewhose pa rentscouldn't pay $ offer eight hundred dol lars a year at some foreign school would re main, with the manifest superiority, prevent ing all malry,) on the side of the descendants of those wealthy opponents of Mi. Temmes The history of this school exhibits at the present momen, a striking confimation of this assertion. In some of its chases are to he found the children of industrious me changes, and honest overseers, who would have the buildness to dispute a hesis with the chil'rea of their proud and wealthy em players, and not only have the holdness to dispute but also the courage to win the re ward of superior acquirements, the result of an industry dependant upon itself, and not on the adventitious and of wealth, and the pr de of ancestry

Those who are acquainted with the nituence of wealth, suddenly and unexpectedly ared, on the h man mind, know ful well tha it intoxicates its posses-ors, and induces a belief that they who enjoy it are superior to the rest of their fellow mortals. who move not in the same wealthy circle, and that it renders them callous to the wants of their fellow men. Hence springs the indifference, if not the hostility of such men to every system of education, which places within the reach of men of ordinary fortunes the means of educa ion-for twey know that in this govern ment, that education triumphs over all the sneers and contempts that may be directed against t, by the purse-proud, and those who claim merit from their long line of an cestry, displayed in their genealogical tree. suspended by the side of their coat of arms in the most conspicuous part of their lamily manajons Thus it is that education has natural tendency to equalize all ranks. Mr Semmes, in his private and p blie life, has been the warm advocate of this equality, and he would employ education as the sures means of prostrating all this pride of wealth and family

Never will they forgive Mr Semmes for this generous propensity of his heart, displayed slike in private and public life, and for this vote, designed for your good, and intended to place within your reach, the means of exhibiting your children to the p blic consideration, with the same induce ments for the public confidence, and as well prepared to sustain their character in life as their own de-cendants.

The preceding hypothesis is confirmed hy the history of the legislative acts of his state from sout til 1812. During that pe tind, the democratic party constituted majority of both branches of the state le gislature. The revenue of the state, aris ing from remvestment of the bank received from England, was beyond all for mer example productive, yet these cold blooded politicians, who affect now such a sensibility for the bettering of the condition of the indigent, neglected to mature a sin gle act of the general assembly, by which either instruction, or any other direct good was given to them!!! Doctor Kent was, during a part of this time, a member of the senate, yet he charges Mr. Semmes with an inattention to their interests!!! Oh! shame where is thy blush!!

I pray you pause on these facts, which the most self confident of their party dark not, under their signature deny. Semmes however can shew two instances of his devotion to the interest of those who are now the peculiar objects of democratic affection, and that in a short legislative life, When the different bank charters were a bout to be renewed, a federal member of the house of delegates proposed, that they should pay a bonus to the state, and that the sum thus paid should be forever set apart as a permanent fund for the education of the children of parents too indigent to support the expense of instructing their offspring It was to have been expected that so humane proposition would have been carried by acclamation. This expectation however vas for some time disappointed, by the democratic party, who in the senate of Mary-land arrested the passage of this philantro-

ed at the public ex seams provided at the member; and yet his cos fiere the rashness and in the denounce him as instrument appiness !!! Mc. Semmes hari appiness !!! I have been all day clearing the road and mending the bridges, and am in hopes to have it in two of three days more, passible for Carrages."

A Jury of inquest was held on Wednesday last, before J. H. STE-VENS, Esq. on the body of ARCHI BALD GRAHAM; found dead under a large back bui ding in John street. near Kilg street Road, which had been blown down during the storm on Sundly night. It is supposed that the deceased had taken refuge in the building from the severity of the stord.

The Jary returned a verdict, that he came to his death by the falling of the building.

THE DIVINING ROD. The art of the Divining Rod, or mag c wand, has been in practice for several denturies. It halits origin in Germiny, but by whom it is uncertain. It was used at first in Europe, for the purpose of finding metala and minerals; and afterwards. in France, was even employed by impostors for the auscovery of stolen property, and to identify characters guilty of drimes. Until within these few years, it was always considered as an art similar to that of animal magnetism, founded on error and deception-but from a series of experiments which have been made and repeated by some of the rest experi-mental Philosophers in france, the art of the Divining Rod now begins to assume a scientific form; and the laws by which it is directed, are ascertained with nearly the same accuracy, as those of Electricity and is now cultivated, improved, and may be applied, are perhaps even more extensive than those other eciences; and in this country particularly, it is capable of being rendered extremely advantageous.

The following are the results of experiments which have been made: 1st. A single twig of any tree whatever, when newly cut, will diverge a certain number of minutes or degrees from its proper position, when brought directly over or in the immediate vicinity of any conducting substance, such as metals or water. But the best conductors for Electricity and Gilvanism, are not the best for the Divining Rod. Water is found to be more powerful than any of the metals, and salt water still more powerful than fresh. The degree of attraction also depends considerably upon the substance interposed between the conductor and the Divining Rod.

2d. Although a twig from any tree will prove the experiment; yet some trees are found to answer much better than others—the lazel, the Peach, and the Cherry, re said to he superior in this respect. A forked twig will also diverge more pow adily than a single twig.

3dily If the twig be suspended by an Electric, or in immediate contact with an Electric, no divergen-cy will take place. 4thly. The angle of divergency depends in a great measure upon the nature of the conductor which is used. The human body is found to produce a greater degree of divergency than any other substanceand the bodies of some individuals produce the effect in a most surprising degree, while in other individuals the action is scarcely perceptible. The effect is also found to vary with the state of the system. What appears most surprising, is that in the boom, as it usually does in such of debility, the greater the effect mail gales; and changed from produced. If the skin of the hu-N. p. to b. He holds the remity of each fork by one hand, in such a marner that the twig may rest in a direction nearly perpendicular to the horizon, having the cut extremity upwards. The operator, holding the trig carefully in this position, walks slowly for wards, and so soon as the approaches any subterraneous water or metal, not more than twenty feet below the surface of the earth, the twig begins to turn or betid forwards. It the metal or water be fut a few feet below the surface of the earth, the twig turns entirely over, with the cut extremity pointing towards the

The same effect will take place with many individuals, without being barefooted, or without having skins mositened-but if the above precautions be taken, the experi ment will succeed with every per 6 If the operator, in making the to riment, has silk stockings, or uses silk gloves, no effect will be produc d.

The Divining Roll has been prac tised in the western country, for many years, with the greatest suc crss, in the hiding of water; and there are several gentlemen of the first respectability in Kentucky, & whose veracity is unquestionable, with whom the experiment invaria hly succeeds. There are also two gentlemen in Richmond, who are well known would never attempt to impose upon the public, equally dextrous to the use of it. These are the Re Jun D Biair and Mr. John Foster. Latter I have seen myself make the experiment.

The European theory to explain the phenomena of the Divining Rid, is briefly this, The conductor, whe ther water or metal, is supposed to form, with the superincumbent earth and the fluid of the human body, a Galvanic circle, and more pertecthis circle is, so much the more powerful will be the action of the Divining Rod.

Thus, what was regarded only a few years ago as a dereption, practised by imposters and the credulous, made the study of men of science. Petersburg Cornier.

HYPOCONDRIA CURED.

The wife of a respectable farmer having suffered much from this discase, fancied that she should die, and often assembled her friends around her bed to withess her closing scene. Alter feprated false aliring, they became convinced that sne laboured under a disease of the mind, and advised her husband to favour her belief about dying. Not long afterwards she was again attacked with her old dhease, and posted off a boy to the corn field, for her husband to come house her die. The husband histened to her bedside, where he found her apparently in the last stages of life .-She informed him that in one hour her soul would wing its way to the mansions above, and before herdeath she wished to know what he would do with the children when her care of them should be at an end. A thought struck him to try the power of vexation: he told her, therefore with great apparent seriousness, that his thoughts had been very anxiously employed on the subject, but at length he came to the resolution, for the sake of the innocents, which he trusted would set her mind a rest on their account; in short he had recentry would permit to marry Molly Browh, (an old maid to whom she had a peculiar dislike.
